If you are an active sportswoman you will need complexion confidence. Try using a creamy-soft foundation and cake makeup. A sportswoman needs stay-on qualities as well as glamour qualities. Use skin freshener instead of water to dampen your cotton or your sponge and your foundation will last longer.

Money Is Bore, Comes Too Easy For This Man

Dog-Track Owner Has to Have Collars Made From His Shirt Tails.

LONDON. — Money always came easily to Sydney E. Parkes, so easily that at 65 he is fed up with being a Midas. At least he said as much when London reporters found him at home recently.

"What's the use of a big fortune"—Parkes' income is something like 430,000 pounds a year — "when I have to get my collars made of material cut from my shirt tails?" he demanded gloomily, adding with a soupcon of bitterness: "Well, perhaps you can understand how it feels to be rich."

The reporters could not, but they nodded agreement with the notion that making one pound every minute was one of those things in life that couldn't be helped and had to be put up with as stoically as might be.

"I'd give every penny I have to be 30 again," Parkes sighed as he sank back in his armchair and clouded the circumambient air with smoke from one of his 100 pipes.

Owns Three Dog Tracks.

Parkes was ensconced beside the fire in his Georgian home, Devonshire house, Wandsworth, which he had bought a few weeks previously with its 28-acre estate, said to be the largest private property in the London county council area. He owns three greyhound racing stadiums and was being interviewed about a dispute between bookmakers and Wandsworth stadium over betting pitches, which had just been decided in the high court. It was during this talk he revealed that his personal income last year was 430,000 pounds.

"It mostly went in income tax," he said. "I got 4,900 pounds on the first 20,000 pounds, and after that only 6 pence in the pound—10,000 pounds at the most. The rest I didn't even see."

While Parkes pondered the eternal verities that there is no way back across the ever-widening gulf of time, no staying the flight, all too swift, of the winged years, his visitors departed and headed in the general direction of Fleet street. Being reporters, therefore skeptics by nature and cynics through daily experiences with all and sundry, they harbored the suspicion that their host derived at least a modicum of consolation from the knowledge that the hard realities of the present were cushioned for him in a measure by his dog tracks.

Soft, Eh What?

Totalisator receipts at Wandsworth stadium alone last year were 3,250,000 pounds, of which Wandsworth stadium limited received 6 per cent. In 1942, the company netted 70,000 pounds; 1943, 74,000 pounds; 1944, 80,000 pounds; 1945, 197,000 pounds.

"Pretty soft, what!"—soliloquized Archibald. "Pretty soft," echoed Percy.

At 27 Parkes was a successful real estate operator. Before he built the Wandsworth stadium 13 years ago he had sold on one development in seven months houses to the value of 750,000 pounds. He put up the stadium, he explained, "to give employment to 400 excellent workmen" who had served him well. His intention was to sell it and get out. But he went on a summer cruise and on his return found that the venture was doing so well he decided to stay in the greyhound racing business for good.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

We Got to the Fish Fry After All

That community fish fry was sure a great success. There were plenty of appetizing extras, and Will Dudley did a right wonderful job of frying the fish—soft and flaky inside—brown and crisp around the edges.

But we didn't get to go. The missus was tired after working in the yard, and we just didn't want to leave her.

Then how did we know the fish was so good? Because the folks didn't forget us. They sent Skippy Henderson over with two steaming covered plates of fish, and a pitcher of cool, sparkling beer. And we finished them off in front of our own fire.

From where I sit, that's one of the things that makes our town so nice a place to live in: a spirit of share and share alike. That plate of fish and glass of beer weren't just great eating, they were symbols of the thoughtfulness that makes for better living!
